Olympic Games Paris 2024 – Women’s Road Race

Dear President,

Thank you for your letter dated 26th February related to the quota place earned by Chile for the Paris 2024 Women’s Road Race.

To answer your questions, the quota place is not allocated to any particular athlete, it is allocated to the Chilean National Olympic Committee. This being the case, the Chilean NOC may use whatever criteria it may determine to decide which athlete should represent Chile in this event during the Olympic Games. There are no specific regulations nor standards which govern the process by which an NOC may select athletes, as long as the athlete selected meets or exceeds the requirements listed in Section C ‘Athlete Eligibility’ of the qualification system.

As such, I suggest that you should consult the National Federation for Cycling in Chile related to how this should best be done.

With sincere regards,

David Lappartient
President
IOC Member
